

Some other key points to consider:

Do you have any appointments that you need to cancel or reschedule in your isolation period?

Are you expecting any non urgent services to enter your property, for example home cleaning or tradespeople in your isolation period? You may need to contact them to reschedule.

Have you got any pets that may need to be taken for a walk or require special care?

Do you have any bills that are due, and you normally pay by cash? Can you call the company and advise you are in isolation.

Financial Assistance:

If you have been asked to isolate you may be eligible for an additional payment from Services Australia. To find out more, call 180 22 66.

What does isolation mean?

If you have been told to isolate, this means you have to go straight to the place you normally live. You must stay at home for the time you have been told to, by the Public Health Unit. The only time you can leave your property is in an emergency or if required by law.

The only time someone else can come into your house is for the following reasons:

- They normally live there and also need to isolate.
- They need to enter for medical or emergency purposes or to provide personal care, they provide a disability service or household assistance to support a person who needs help due to their age, disability or chronic health.

If you have family/friends/supports who are going to drop food and other things to help support you through isolation, they will need to place the items at your front door and then stand as far back from you as possible. Once they have done this, then you can collect your items, whilst wearing your mask.

If you feel it is not safe for you to isolate at home at any point in isolation due to family violence you can leave and Call safe steps on 1800 015 188 or email safesteps@safesteps.org.au. They operate 24 hours a day, 7 days per week.

You may be feeling a bit worried about isolation, and that is very normal. If you have a backyard which is fenced off to others, you can still go outside and enjoy the fresh air, play with the kids or potter in the garden.

If you feel you need support and would like to talk someone, you can contact the Coronavirus Wellbeing Support service on 1800 512 348.

If you have tested positive to COVID 19, your symptoms could range from nothing to feeling very unwell. It is important to monitor your symptoms and if you need assistance, call a local medical clinic, for urgent help call 000.
